THE EINSTEIN AUCTION

As of 2018-10-01, Alexander Bitar History are announcing a truly remarkable and important charity sale regarding one of the most significant Albert Einstein papers in private hands. On December 5, 2018, Stockholms Auktionsverk will auction the Einstein manuscript. The unique charity auction includes that the highest bidder will obligate to donate the manuscript to The Nobel Museum in Stockholm, Sweden, to be available for public view.

The item in question is the very first published work by Einstein after receiving his Nobel Prize in physics in 1922. In the manuscript, Einstein incorporates a variant of his General Theory of Relativity from 1915. Another remarkable feature is that the manuscript was owned by Nobel laureate Max von Laue for more than 25 years. It's simply the ultimate Nobel item, thus the reason of why this manuscript will end up at The Nobel Museum.
